How Much Would it Cost You Now if You Had an Accident?

Why Do I Need Accident Medical Coverage

- If you are healthy, you may have a greater healthcare risk from having an accident than from getting a disease
- Every health insurance policy requires you to pay 100% of your medical expenses until you reach your Annual Deductible (typically $250 to $5,000)
- After you reach your Annual Deductible, most health insurance policies require you to pay Coinsurance of 10%-20% of your medical expenses up to $10,000
- Most health insurance policies do not fully cover Dental, Chiropractic, Ambulance, Prescriptions, and other expenses you could incur when you or a family member has an accident

Accident Medical Coverage pays your Annual Deductible, Coinsurance, Dental, Chiropractic and other medical expenses not paid by your health insurance when you have an accident

A Simple Accident Could Cost You Thousands of Dollars, Even With the Best Health Insurance

- Do you, or a member of your family, play sports, ski, snowboard, or ride a bicycle—a simple fall or injury could cost you thousands in medical expenses not fully covered by your health insurance
- Your home is actually the place where you are most likely to have an accident—a fall, cooking accident, choking, or an accidental poisoning
- Do you travel? If you have an accident requiring medical attention away from home it could cost you thousands of dollars more because you are out of the network of your health insurance carrier

Every Family with Health Insurance Needs Accident Medical Coverage
